Employee Compensation and Benefits Policy 2024

Section 1 — Compensation Philosophy

The company's compensation policy is designed to attract, retain, and motivate talented employees. Total compensation consists of base salary, performance bonus, pension contributions, and non-monetary benefits.

Section 2 — Salary Structure

Salary bands are reviewed annually against market benchmarks. Employees are classified into six compensation grades (C1 through C6) based on role complexity, accountability, and market positioning.

Section 3 — Performance Bonus

The annual performance bonus is calculated as a percentage of base salary:
- C1–C2: up to 5% of annual salary
- C3–C4: up to 12% of annual salary
- C5–C6: up to 20% of annual salary

Bonus eligibility requires a minimum performance rating of "Meets Expectations".

Section 4 — Pension and Insurance

The company contributes 12% of gross salary to the employee's pension fund. Life insurance coverage equals 3 times annual salary. Health insurance covers the employee and immediate family members.

Section 5 — Equal Pay

The company conducts annual equal pay analyses to ensure compensation is determined solely by role, experience, and performance — never by gender, ethnicity, or other protected characteristics.
